Take Your IRA for a Walk, Not a Haircut!

Did You Know That You Can Still Walk Your IRA Out of the US Legally?

This just in from one of the most respected Sovereign Person gurus in the world:

"Look at what's happened since just last Thursday:

Germany's central bank has proposed a once-off emergency wealth tax

HSBC in the UK was caught red-handed limiting their customers' withdrawals

President Obama has started to encourage Americans to loan their retirement savings to the federal government..."

The warning is echoed by an article at Zero Hedge.

"Wondering who will take over the mantle of Treasury bond buyer now that the Fed is stepping away? Curious of the government's next steps towards repression and control of wealth?

Wait no longer. ...President Obama will [support] a new retirement savings plan ... that allows first-time savers to buy US Treasury bonds tax-deferred for retirement. Of course, this is not the mandatory IRA that remains somewhat inevitable (as the muddle-through fails) but is certainly a step in the direction we alerted readers to a year ago by which the government generously offers to help manage your retirement savings.

Two words spring to mind... remember Poland..."

More about that, below…

Zero Hedge further states that Bloomberg had reported last year:

"The U.S. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau is weighing whether it should take on a role in helping Americans manage the $19.4 trillion they have put into retirement savings, a move that would be the agency's first foray into consumer investments."

Can a government retirement fund take-over Happen here, in the USA?

It happened in Argentina a couple years ago. Private accounts were seized in Cyprus. Just this past September, retirees in Poland took a 50% "haircut" when the post-communist government seized half of all pension assets to allow it to continue unchecked spending:

The Rationalization:

"Government has too much debt to issue more debt,

Government nationalizes private pension funds making their debt holdings an "asset" and commingles with other public assets,*

New confiscated assets net out sovereign debt liability, lowering the debt/GDP ratio,*

Debt/GDP drops below threshold, government can issue more sovereign debt..."

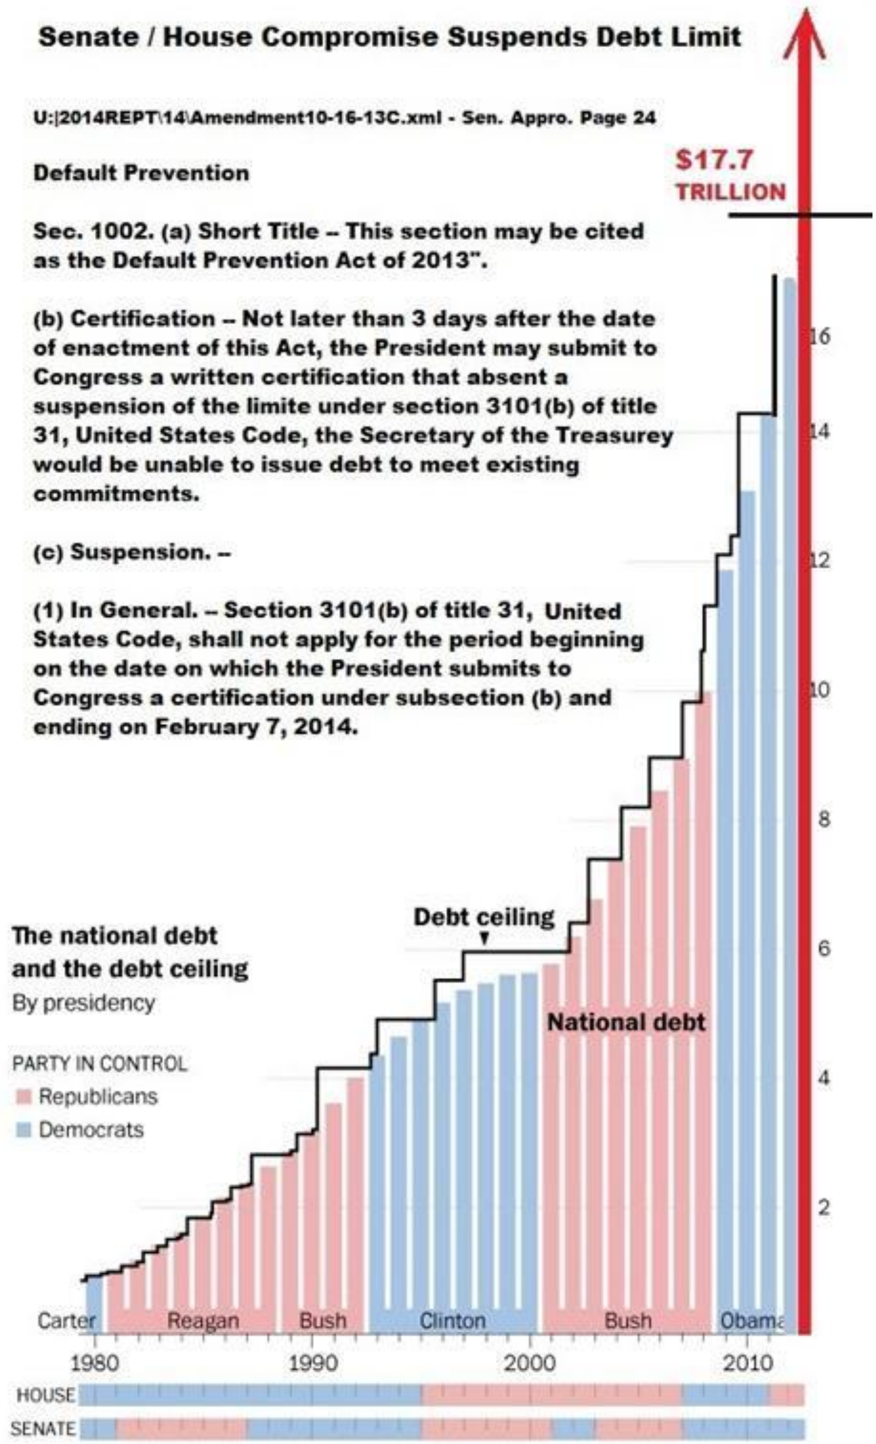
Fed Fiat Debt Limit Circumvented!

Notice please, how the seizure of pension funds allows the government to circumvent debt limits. The US Congress actually suspended the Federal Fiat Debt Limit last October, letting the Treasury borrow without limit, with the Federal Reserve buying up whatever US Treasury Bonds could not be sold to the public or other governments.

This chart tells it all – no matter which tax-eater party controls which House or Congress, or the White House, the Federal Fiat Debt continues to escalate, and has done so for decades.



The suspension ends in a few days.
What will happen then?

TIME HAS COME TO ACT.

Can you still get your IRA money out of the USA and to safety?

Yes you can. Changes in the banking rules which make it more difficult to move funds offshore are currently in effect, but do not seem to be preventing the movement of funds; rather, we find that there are delays imposed, and daily limits, but the funds can still be moved.

For the time being.

Cannot be sure what will happen from day to day.

Extreme market volatility suggests that drastic changes could happen at any time. The specter of hyperinflation continues to loom over all...
